Federal Tax Aid Misdirected, Data On States Shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal aid to states and localities does not take into account the varying economic growth rates and fiscal pressures among the states and perhaps should be revamped, a federal-state commission says.

Statistics show that heavy federal spending in the West and South is difficult to reconcile with the fact that the burden of state taxes is heavier in the industrialized Northeast and Midwest, the Advisory Committee on Intergovernmental Relations said.

But the commission, in a report released Friday, stopped short of recommending a wholesale change in the criteria upon which federal aid is channeled to the states.

It conceded there are sound arguments for a hands-off federal policy as opposed to one that gives a high priority to state and local tax burdens in the disbursement of federal monies.

The 26-member panel, comprised of federal, state and local officials, was created by Congress in 1959 to monitor the operations of the federal system and recommend improvements. It said:

"Similar to the discovery of city-suburb disparities in the 1960s, a number of observers feel that findings such as these indicate the need for major revisions in the federal aid system."

Using statistics that likened a state's tax burden to a person's blood pressure, the commission found that taxpayers in highly industrialized urban states bear the heaviest and most steadily increasing state and local tax burdens.

The study did not talk in terms of "tax load," however. It defined tax burden as the ratio of state-local tax collections to resident personal income.

The study compared the 1975 tax burden with the average annual rate of increase or decrease in the tax burden between 1964 and 1975 by placing the two measurements in a ratio for each state. Each state then was ranked in terms of the 1975 tax burden and the rate of change over the 11-year period.

The 1975 tax burden was designated as the numerator or "systolic" reading, and the change between 1964 and 1975 was the denominator or "diastolic" measurement. The median state had a rating of 100 over 100.

The commission divided the states into four quadrants, and categorized tax burdens as: high and rising (the worst), high and falling (bad but improving), low and rising (good but turning bad), and low and falling (good and getting better).

The study found variations that ranged from New York's 146 over 197, high and rising, to New Hampshire's 92 over 152, low and rising.

Find Doctors Refuse To Treat Lawyers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Alaska is investigating allegations that several doctors, apparently upset over malpractice suits, have refused to treat families of some lawyers who handle such cases, the state attorney general says.

A source familiar with the case, who asked not be identified, said that in one instance two doctors refused at the last minute to go through with nonemergency surgery at Providence Hospital on the wife of a lawyer.

In a second case a lawyer's son reportedly had to go to Seattle for a tonsillectomy after being refused by his doctor, the source said.

According to the source, the doctors involved are among the Alaska physicians who have fought bitterly against a mandatory malpractice insurance program. The plan had been scheduled for implementation Jan. 1 to help stem rising insurance rates, but it has been held up pending resolution of a court challenge.

Attorney General Avrum Gross said investigators were trying to decide whether the case was a civil or criminal matter. He confirmed that the lawyers involved have handled malpractice cases.

Another source close to the investigation told The Associated Press: "We believe we have a specific statutory violation."

Dr. Mike Beirne, an Anchorage state representative, confirmed the incident at Providence Hospital. And he said one of the lawyers called to say he was "very, very upset about it." Beirne did not comment on the allegation involving the tonsillectomy.

A spokesman for Providence Hospital declined to comment on the allegation and said records on the matter would not be made public.

The attorneys believed to have made the allegations refused to confirm their role in the action or offer any comment. The doctors were unavailable for comment.

One Anchorage doctor, commenting on the case, said some doctors "don't feel they can be unemotional about someone who is suing their family or close friend for a seemingly unfounded case. That's why they might not want to be involved. They don't think it's fair to the patients involved."

Lizard Aids Roach Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Three New York University students have found a relatively inexpensive — and apparently effective — way to combat cockroaches in their Greenwich Village apartment. They bought a lizard.

"We had so many cockroaches the kitchen sink was black at night," says Marlene Matarese. "They were so confident they didn't even move when you turned on the light. It was frightening."

A local pet shop sold Miss Matarese and her roommates a Tokay Gecko, a foot-long lizard with beady eyes, orange polka dots and an appetite for insects, for $10. "Geeko" took up residence under the refrigerator.

"It took about three months, but Geeko finally got the population down to very manageable proportions," said Wendy Fuller.

Christians Celebrate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After a sorrowful observance of Christ's death on the cross, Christians throughout the world prepared today to celebrate the joy of his rising at Easter.

All mankind should hear "at least an echo of this great story of pain and love," Pope Paul VI told thousands of faithful who gathered Friday in the ruins of Rome's ancient Colosseum to watch a re-enactment of Christ's torturous walk to Calvary.

After a drivingrain slackened to a drizzle, Pope Paul took a six-foot cross in his own hands for the final three stations of the cross in the hourlong procession. The 79-year-old pontiff walked painfully because of a chronic knee ailment.

Warm sunshine bathed Jerusalem as thousands of pilgrims from many nations, some laboring under heavy crosses, retraced Christ's footsteps along the Via Dolorosa this Good Friday.

The processions in Rome and Jerusalem commemorated Christ's walk from the Praetorium, where he was sentenced to death, to Calvary, where he was nailed to the cross. The participants in the ceremonies stopped at the 14 stations where, it is believed, Christ stopped on his way to Calvary.

The faithful filed into the dark halls of Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulchre as the bells of the crusader-era church pealed mournfully.

According to Christian tradition, the church stands on the sites of Calvary and Christ's tomb. At its entrance pilgrims knelt to kiss the marble stone of unction said to mark the spot where Christ's body was wrapped in a shroud.

The procession along Jerusalem's ancient "Street of Sorrow" was led by Greek Orthodox Archbishop Simon of Jerash. Normally the Orthodox Easter comes one or two weeks after the Roman Catholic Easter, but when they coincide, as they do this year, the churches alternate in leading the Good Friday procession.

The procession in the Colosseum was beamed by satellite to 22 countries, including the United States.

Earlier, in St. Peter's Basilica, the Pope joined in a solemn Good Friday ceremony before 23 cardinals and an estimated 10,000 worshipers.

The Pope took off his shoes and shed his mitre, ring and other symbols of authority, then walked slowly to a crucifix. As it was unveiled, he sank painfully to his knees on a pillow. He was supported on both sides by assistants.

The Gospel account of Christ's passion and death was chanted in Latin, the baritone voice of the Christ figure contrasting with the shrill tones of the Sistine Choir of men and boys, chanting the part of the crowd.

SAFETY AWARD — Berger Hospital was awarded a Safety Merit Certificate for 100 per cent accident prevention record for 1976. The Hospital Safety Committee consists of, from the left, Carolyn McCoy, dietary director, J. McLaughlin, chairman, Violet Smith, housekeeping supervisor, G. Campbell, controller and Paula Cranford, head nurse of the medical -surgical department. Not pictured is Frank Moore, M.D. They meet monthly to make the hospital a safe environment for employes, patients and visitors. The group's biggest accomplishment has been the organizing of an evacuation plan for the hospital. The award was given by the Industrial Commission of Ohio, co-sponsored by the Ohio Hospital Association.

OSU Fire Injures 2; Loss Heavy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Damage has been estimated at $250,000 from an explosion and fire in an Ohio State University classroom building early Friday in which two people were injured.

The blast occurred just 20 minutes before 8 a.m classes were scheduled to start.

OSU teaching assistant Priscilla Ware, 32, was discovered pinned beneath a desk by firemen entering Scott Hall on the OSU west campus. She was admitted to University Hospital in fair condition for treatment of smoke inhalation and burns, according to a university spokesman.

She had gone to the building to teach a class in freshman mathmatics.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined, but the state fire marshal's office and Clinton Township firemen were investigating.

The transformer was located in the basement of Scott Hall. The fire sent dense smoke through the building and the adjacent Bevis Hall.

"The whole place was completely filled with smoke," said Clinton Township Fire Department Lt. Mike Mitchell. "You couldn't see your hand before your face."

Firefighter Robert Carson was treated for knee and back injuries sustained when he fell while making his way through the smoke.

As a result of the fire, OSU officials closed the west campus area Friday, canceling classes for as many as 7,000 students, most of them freshmen.

The incident followed a power outage in the area which occurred at 1:34 a.m. An OSU spokesman said employes had changed a switch box in Scott Hall to an auxillary power source and, shortly after they left, the explosion occurred.

Jesus Stormy, Historian Says

LONDON (AP) — Jesus Christ regarded himself as a failure, was spurned by his own family and finally was rejected by many of his disciples, according to a new book by a distinguished British scholar.

Jesus was not "meek and mild," as often portrayed, but was stormy and passionate by nature, says author Michael Grant in the book, "Jesus," published in London by Wiedenfeld and Nicholson.

Grant also concludes that Christ was not a revolutionary but was "obsessively single-minded" in the belief that he had been chosen to usher in the "Kingdom of God."

Grant, a former Cambridge University classics professor and respected author of 30 historical works, has for years studied Christ as an historical figure. He said that in researching his book he used the disciplines of classical scholarship to take a fresh look at the four Gospels and the vast array of literature about Jesus.

Jesus' family had to apologize for his behavior, and he met the end he did only because of deliberate clashes with Jewish leaders that could have been avoided, Grant wrote.

The author, relying on the New English Bible, cites many Gospel passages for his theories. Among other passages, he points to Mark 6:4 and Matthew 13:57 as an admission by Jesus that he had failed to convert his own people, the Jews: "A prophet will always be held in honor except in his hometown and among his kinsmen and family."

As evidence of rejection by the disciples, he cites John 6:60, 6:66: "When Jesus was giving instruction in Capernaum, many of his disciples on hearing it exclaimed, 'This is more than we can stomach. Why listen to this talk?...' From that time on, many of his disciples withdrew and no longer went about with him."

Grant, who says he is inclined to view the miracles, the virgin birth, and the Resurrection as "legendary" stories, writes that after Christ's death his name lived on largely because of word-of-mouth tales of his ability as an exorcist.

The author rejects the theory that Jesus never really existed, but he takes no stand on his divinity.

"The point is that Jesus, while on earth, was human, and that he gave us a revelation of the maximum effect that one human being has ever been able to exercise upon others," Grant says.

His life "was and permanently remains the most heartening thing which has ever happened to the human race," Grant concludes.

Peres Seen Winner In Israeli Struggle

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Defense Minister Shimon Peres has bested Foreign Minister Yigal Allon in two days of hard politicking for the leadership of the ruling Labor party, a party spokesman indicated today.

Spokesman Yaacov Aini said Peres would be "apparently the only candidate" when the party Central Committee meets Sunday night to choose a successor to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

Rabin said Thursday he was resigning because of a personal financial scandal, throwing the party into a turmoil that can only hurt it in the approaching May 17 parliamentary elections.

Allon told reporters Friday he was "seriously and positively" considering appeals from his supporters to seek the party leadership. The semiofficial state radio said Allon, 58, would be offered the Defense Ministry, the No. 2 spot in the Israeli cabinet, if Labor wins the coming elections.

The radio and other sources said dovish Labor factions were urging Allon to leave the party in protest over Peres' more hawkish views on a Mideast peace settlement.

Peres, 53, worked to avoid such a split, saying he was bound to the Labor party platform which pledges willingness to trade occupied Arab lands for peace guarantees.

The defense minister said on the state radio that Israel should seek a Geneva peace conference in the second half of this year — a view that matches those expressed by President Carter and Rabin.

Political observers said Allon had not had time to woo support away from Peres.

The approaching election made the choice of a successor for Rabin urgent. Tuesday is the legal deadline for parties to submit their lists of candidates.

On Monday, Rabin must inform the cabinet who is taking over his duties until the balloting.

Peres implied Friday that he was Rabin's natural heir and stressed that Rabin beat him by only a small margin in a fight for the party leadership at a convention in February.

U.S. Eager For Arms Limits, Carter Says

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) — President Carter says the United States will be "very eager" to change its nuclear arms limitation proposals if a reassessment of Soviet objections and a projection of future U.S. strength show the proposals are unfair.

Carter, on an Easter holiday today at the home of his son, Jack, in this north Georgia textile town, said he has had "private messages" from Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev assuring him the Russians are determined to continue arms talks.

He disclosed his communications with Brezhnev at a brief news conference Friday on arrival in Georgia. Carter called the messages "a routine sort of exchange, nothing dramatic or startling, no' new concepts." But he described them as "encouraging."

Carter noted that a month remains before Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko resume strategic arms limitation treaty negotiations in Geneva.

"During that period of time, we will be reassessing some of the objections that the Soviets have raised to see if there is some alternative that would be equally fair to both sides, and we are now making projections of our own level of nuclear armaments in the number of missiles, the number of warheads, the throw-weight and the diversity of nuclear capability that would be in existence in 1985, if our proposal was accepted," the President said.

"If during this re-analysis we show that there is any inequity there, we will be very eager to change it. My own opinion so far, and I have done a good bit of work on it, even since the Moscow talks, is that our proposal was fair and was equitable.

"If the Soviets can give us some explanation about which we were not aware concerning their own capabilities or plans, I would certainly take that into consideration."

During talks with Vance in Moscow last week, Brezhnev rejected Carter's proposals to:

—Ratify a 1974 Vladivostok agreement that the two countries limit ballistic missile launchers and strategic bombers to 2,400 and missiles with multiple warheads to 1,320 — without deciding whether to include the U.S. Cruise missile or the Soviet Backfire bomber.

—Or cut the number of each country's ballistic missile launchers and strategic bombers to between 1,800 and 2,000 and reduce missiles with multiple warheads to between 1,100 and 1,200.

Carter also told the news conference:

—The Palestinians must have a spokesman at any Middle East peace negotiations in Geneva.

"Whether that would be done by a surrogate or by them directly is something that hasn't been evolved," the President said. "But I certainly think that in some fashion the Palestinian people must be represented."

Carter said the resignation of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin as a candidate for reelection might affect the chances for peace in the Middle East, "but no one can predict how."

"There is almost a unanimous commitment, I think, among all the Mideastern countries that if we don't succeed this year in some major step toward peace that it will be a long time before we can mount such a mammoth multinational effort again," Carter said.

—His $50 tax rebate has "a good chance to pass" when Congress returns from Easter recess on April 18. Carter called the rebate necessary to spur consumer buying and the best way to return $11 billion in government under-spending and over-taxing.

"I think the best thing to do with this extra money is to return it to the taxpayers immediately," said Carter, adding that he doesn't want to "link" the rebate to any trading for water projects, a higher minimum wage or larger farm price supports.

He said he has talked to senators reportedly against the rebate and found them openminded. His chief congressional lobbyist, Frank Moore, told reporters five more Democrats and one more Republican have been persuaded to lean toward the rebate.

The vote is expected to be close. The House already has approved the rebate.

—He considers United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young's apology to the British for accusing them of racism "to be an end to the matter."

Carter added: "I think all of the nations that were in such a dominant position in the last number of generations have obviously been guilty of racism. But I certainly wouldn't think the British are any more guilty then we are."

Saccharin Ban Study Promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles J. Carney, D-Ohio, has called for another two years of study before any ban on the use of saccharin is implemented.

"Ten million Americans are diabetic and must carefully restrict their intake of sugar," said Carney. "At this time the evidence that saccharin causes cancer is inconclusive."

Carney is co-sponsoring a bill delaying for two years any ban on the food additive. He says the legislation "would allow the FDA and the scientific community sufficient time to consider all the evidence on saccharin and to weigh cautiously the public benefit against any remote risk that saccharin might present."

Bread Making Workshop

Bread making is one of the home arts that requires practice to develop skill. Just following a recipe correctly doesn't always produce the finest product, as any beginner will verify.

A very experienced bread maker, Mrs. Ed (Jane) Kuhlwein, will share her recipes, skills and special tips at a Bread Making Workshop to be held on April 11 from 1:30 to 3 p.m., at the Trinity Lutheran Church Parish House, 135 E. Mound St., Circleville.

Jane is well known as an eight-year 4-H breads project advisor and has won numerous fair and Pumpkin Show ribbons for her breads.

Jane will show how to make a basic dough from which are made breads, filled doughnuts, raised doughnuts, and a tea ring. Other breads displayed and discussed will be coconut-butterscotch rolls, overnight rolls, whole wheat and white breads. Mrs. Kuhlwein's well-tested recipes will be shared with those attending. Registration is $2. per person to cover expenses.

The workshop is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and is open to anyone. For further information contact Beverly Bechtel, Home Economics Extension Agent, 474-7534.

Removing Smoke Odor

Where there's smoke, there's odor, and it often stays long after the fire is out. Judy Wessel, Housing Specialist at Ohio State University, sent the following information concerning smoke odors in the home.

Are there any new methods for getting smoke out of garments?

There are no new and easy methods for getting smoke out of garments. The old methods of soaking, washing and bleaching, if the garment can be bleached, are still methods for taking care of washable garments. For garments that cannot be washed, a good home spotting fluid can be used. In this latter case, a professional dry cleaner should also be consulted.

How can I remove smoke odor in a house after a fire?

The remedy of fire and smoke damage requires skills beyond the skills of a homemaker. There is more to odor than just the smell. The location and types of material can present a problem.

The National Institute of Fire Restoration (NIFR) is an independent association of contractors and service firms that specialize in the treatment and repair of fire and smoke damage.

Wide area spray deodorization is an effective quick-relief measure for fire and smoke damage. If properly performed it can permanently eliminate smoke odor in some cases. However, for most fire damage it provides only temporary relief unless followed by cleaning and other restoration process.

In deodorization, as in other aspects of fire restoration, there are many variables for a simple formula to be applied with guaranteed success. Effective deodorization of smoke is always a combination of the right materials, the right method and the judgment that comes with experience. One of the most recent methods of deodorizing is the use of ozone. Check the yellow pages in your telephone directory for specialists in your area.

Quality T-Shirts

As warm weather arrives, shop for the best buy in warm weather clothing. Although a T-shirt is an inexpensive purchase, don't make the mistake of buying too hastily. Not all T-shirts are alike. As with other articles, there are variations in quality of workmanship and material. Take the extra time to check for quality, it will pay off in a better looking, longer wearing garment.

An important consideration is the fabric. Most T-shirts are either 100 per cent cotton or a cotton-polyester blend. Polyester is a man-made fabric that has a natural affinity for body oils, which may cause it to yellow easily. This problem can be eased, however, by laundering in hot water with a heavy duty detergent and a non-chlorine bleach. Cotton-polyester blends also tend to pill after washing; that is, the material forms fuzzy balls of fabric which cling to the surface. One hundred per cent cotton T-shirts do not pill, they also become soft after laundering; whereas, blended shirts remain relatively stiff and prone to static cling. On the other hand, polyester blends require less ironing than cotton shirts.

Finally, an important advantage of polyester blend shirts is that they retain shape better than cotton shirts, resisting both stretch and shrinkage.

Cold Winter Hard On Ornamentals

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

The coldest winter in Ohio in years has resulted in death or injury to many landscape plants.

The full extent of the damage will not be known until sometime later this summer when drying conditions stress the plants beyond their capacity to recover. Many landscape plants, however, have already shown symptoms of injury and others are discoloring at a rapid pace as the warm days of spring arrive.

Damage appears to be most prevalent on plants that were planted this last summer. Many of these did not have time to establish a root system in the new environment before the soil froze. Injury was also extensive to plants which are considered marginally hardy in the area such as Southern Magnolia.

Plants normally considered semi-evergreen will often lose some foliage or encounter leaf discoloration however, this winter most all these plants were damaged heavily. Among the group of plants considered as semi-evergreen and showing extensive damage are Firethorn, Mahonia (Oregon Grape Holly), Euonymus, and Azalea cultivars.

Damage on narrowleaf evergreens is extensive and is increasing in severity with the warm days of early spring. Examples of narrowleaf evergreens showing the most injury are pines, hemlock, and taxus. However, in most cases only the foliage appears to be damaged and the stem and bud tissues are alive.

Flower bud loss and-or foliage browning has been noted on a number of broadleaf evergreens such as Rhododendron, Pieris, Boxwood, Japanese Holly, and Yucca.

Injury to deciduous trees and shrubs varies with the species. The flower buds of many shrubs and some flowering trees such as Forsythia and Dogwood have been damaged. Dieback of branches of Sweetgum, Tree of Heaven and Thundercloud Plum will be extensive and many smaller trees may not live. Dieback of Londonplane tree can be expected, and in some areas, frost cracking of the trunks was severe. The frost cracking or trunk splitting of some maples, lindens, and certain other trees was widespread, but in most cases the wounds will heal without treatment.

Roses were damaged extensively this winter, particularly where mulching was not satisfactory. Some cultivars were killed completely, while others were not damaged anymore than usual. Among the ground covers, English Ivy and Wintercreeper were damanged the most and pruning is recommended to remove injured tissues.

To aid in the recovery of injured landscape plants consult your local garden center, landscape or nursery firm for advice and supplies. These firms have an adequate supply of nursery stock for replacement and further landscape needs and early planting is recommended for trees and shrubs.

The key word is patience. Wait before destroying plants or conducting extensive pruning, to determine the full extent of injury. New shoots will appear on many plants from below the injured stem tissue or from the root system, however, these new shoots may not appear until mid-late spring.

To determine the extent of stem damage cut through the bark on an angle to look for green or white tissue beneath the bark. If the tissues are brown beneath the bark, can be easily broken off or appear shrivelled, the tissue is dead or dying. Continue the knife or fingernail test on small branches further down the stem until healthy stems appear. Using this technique is the best procedure to determine stem injury.

Pruning away dead or dying wood (not foliage) as determined by stem discoloration or the knife test is recommended for all plants. Prune the wood an inch or two below the injured area. Use sharp pruning equipment to avoid tearing bark or causing further injury. Tree wound dressings or pruning wounds have not proven to be beneficial and are no longer recommended.

We've heard how dry the soil is in some areas, but this is generally not the situation in Ohio in spring.

If soils are dry, watering is suggested. An inch of water (through rainfall or irrigation) every 10 days is recommended throughout the spring and summer. Avoid overwatering injured plants; however, as this will further aggravate the situation by creating water-logged soil, which prevents air from getting to the roots. Watering this summer will, most likely, be necessary to hasten the growth of ornamentals, particularly evergreens.

If the spring or summer growing season is unusually dry, the plants will not recover properly and could be completely killed next winter. Thus, it's important to do all we can to aid in plant recovery.

To promote new growth and maintain health, annual fertilizing of all ornamentals is recommended. All plants damaged during the winter will benefit from a spring fertilizing. Apply a turf type fertilizer (with a high nitrogen analysis) to promote vegetative growth at the rate suggested on the label.

An early spring and early summer fertilization at approximately one pound of actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet each application is recommended to foster new shoot growth. A soil test is recommended to determine phosphorus, potassium, and calcium needs.

If landscape plants died from casualty events of the winter, losses may be claimed on homeowner's insurance policies up to a maximum of $250 per plant. Check your policy and contact your insurance agent to determine if coverage is provided. An additional rider may be necessary with certain companies for plant damage coverage.

An appraisal of plant loss from a professional landscaper, arborist, or nurseryman will be necessary to support the claim.

Local Residents Attend SWCD Spring Meeting

The Spring Meeting of the South Sub-Area 5 Supervisors of the Ohio Federation of SWCDs was held March 23 in Brown County at the Huntington House, Aberdeen.

Chairman of the meeting was Guy McRoberts of Brown County.

Chaney Vance, Chairman of the Pickaway SWCD Board of Supervisors, gave the directors' report on recent Area V activities. Clifton Maquire, Deputy State Conservationist, spoke about the SCS Budget and also the employe ceilings imposed on Ohio.

Dale Teeters, Counselor with Sabre Systems Incorporated, Dayton, informed the meeting about Land Use taxation and how the re-evaluations have affected agriculture. Teeters stated that the problem was not that agricultural land was reevaluated too high, but rather had been evaluated too low in the past. The new tax evaluation reflects current market values and is a realistic value.

Robert Kinney, Assistant Supervisor for the Department of Tax Equalization, gave some background into the re-evaluation program and how the present system was formed.

Gene Derickson, Assistant Chief, Division of Soil and Water Districts, reported on the progress of the Point-Non Point Pollution Abatement Bill. To date no action has been taken but the bill is expected to move through the legislature before long. Derickson pointed out the advantages of the bill in the area of energy conservation, which has proven this past winter, to be a very important concern for everyone in Ohio.

Jim Wells from the USDA Research Farm in Brown County gave a slide presentation on the importance of tobacco to agriculture in southern Ohio. Presently some 10,000 farm families derive their income from tobacco production. They received some $14 million for their labor in 1976.

Aside from the contribution Ohio tobacco farmers make to the state's economy, sales of tobacco products provide money jobs in tobacco wholesaling, retailing, manufacturing and shipping. Ohio's retail sales of tobacco products amounted to more than $545 million in 1973, special taxes contributed another $300 million in tax revenues. A tour of a local tobacco warehouse followed the presentation.

Wells commented that the Agricultural Research farm also does research on grape types and production in Ohio. This is for the purpose of establishing a new agricultural product and industry that will offer more opportunities to Ohio farmers.

The McIntosh Winery and Vineyard was toured as a good example of developing a new business with a new agricultural product as its base.

Attending from Pickaway County were Chaney Vance, Charles McCray, H. M. Everhart, Olive Neff, Ray Taylor, Donald Archer, Bernard Czartoski, Paul Hoskins, and Ellen Smith.

A Page Of Opinion

Crime Trend Turns

So many variables go into crime statistics compiled by the FBI from law enforcement agencies — including an estimated large number of crimes in certain categories which go unreported — that it is not wise to base judgments on short-term statistical trends.

Nevertheless, the 4th quarter 1976 FBI report, showing a 6 percent drop in serious crimes, is the first such decline indicated in four years. That has to rank at least as an improvement.

Adding confidence to the 4th quarter trend is the fact declines in reported crimes were noted in a broad field of crime categories. Violent crimes for the year showed a drop of 5 percent, the first annual decline in the 17 years the FBI has been collecting comparable crime data.

Law enforcement has a long way to go to bring crime down to size. The 1976 report provides an incentive to try harder. As for the reasons behind last year's performance, law enforcement agencies differ. But one interesting opinion from the Center for Studies in Criminology and Criminal Law at the University of Pennsylvania attributes it to shrinkage of the high crime age group (14 to 21-year-olds).

Inside Woody Allen

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Unlike most funny men, Woody Allen is hard to put in a comedy pigeonhole. It would be easier to put him in a padded cell.

"I still have the same insecurities, sure," he said pensively this week, during an interview. "I still don't like the dark that much. A fear of being strangled suddenly by a stranger? Absolutely." And despite years of thrice-weekly sessions with his analyst, there remains that rotten fear of falling off low places, like curbs.

Despite his obvious success, Woody Allen remains meek. "The meek," he says, "shall inherit the earth — right in the mouth."

Actually, he's on top of the world, compared to his position when we first met in 1965. At that time he appeared to be ignominious, bashful, awkward and totally incompetent ("But looks are deceiving," he pointed out; "I'm not as normal as I appear.") He had lived for 29 years in New York, never in an apartment larger than two rooms, and he told me plaintively, "I'd like something where somebody could be in another part of the apartment, and get murdered, and I wouldn't even know about it."

At our second meeting, in 1967, he had found that larger place, and reported, "I feel good. But not that good. Because it's big enough that an assault could go on, and certainly blackmail, without my knowing about it," he said somberly, "but I'm still not sure about murder."

Most people find it difficult to believe that Woody, with his comic genius, is really this insecure. He is. I asked him this week, for instance, what was the quality that attracted such a large following, and he looked at me with those limpid brown eyes and said, "I don't have that big a following. I mean, I have a moderate following, not enormous, and they may be loyal, although I'm not too sure about that, and I suppose some of them, if they're there, identify with my particular problems, and others feel confident because they don't have those particular problems."

Woody's latest self-written and directed movie, "Annie Hall," which will open soon and co-stars Diane Keaton, is billed as a contemporary romantic comedy, and he doesn't have much to say about it. What little he will say is this:

"Me — I never like my movies. They're never anywhere near what I set out to make. Occasionally, individual moments come out well, but most of the movies are not as good as they were in my mind. I'm hoping right after 'Annie Hall' is premiered, I'll never have to hear about it or see it again. Nothing would please me more."

Woody is dressed in corduroy jacket and pants which match his hair, which matches his complexion, which coordinates nicely with his eyes. He is 5 feet 3 inches of pale tawny orange — like a lingering sunset (or, as he might prefer it, an early coating of rust). As he slouches in his producers' office, he modestly mourns the fact that, in his opinion, "all of my films are full of mistakes, bits and pieces that I've screwed up. I've spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on little bits and pieces that had to be cut. Miscalculation. Like, I had an elaborate dream sequence in 'Sleeper,' where live people dressed up as chess pieces and held a game in a desert. Well, there was a good joke before the sequence, and a good joke after it, so the chess dream by contrast was boring. It had to go. But that's not important.

"I don't care about money at all. I get a moderate salary to do my job, and I get a percentage of the movies after they make a substantial profit — but I rarely see that because they rarely make a substantial profit. What money I get, I spend as soon as I get it — on junk, on books, records, eating out — you know anything I want. The only value of money is to spend it on what you want. Otherwise, what's the point in it?"

Aside from his movies and writings, Woody produces a comic strip, "Inside Woody Allen," with artist Joe Marthen, syndicated in over 260 papers. And every night, he plays clarinet in a jazz band in a Manhattan nightclub. Plenty of success, money, freedom, that big apartment — can this glorious life cause Woody Allen ultimately to become sure of himself?

"No, no. 'Cause it sounds good, but it's not really that nice."

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you listen closely, and perhaps use your imagination a bit, you can hear it out there in the darkness, that dreaded thing, a banshee fortelling doom. It is double-digit inflation.

Executives of big business turn rigid at the sound, listening, watching. They are convinced it will move in closer to their corporate campground, and it will take an avalanche of contrary evidence to disabuse them of the notion.

That wholesale prices rose at a double-digit rate — 13.2 per cent annually — in March provides documentation for their fears, even if the Carter administration people maintain that the underlying inflation rate is less than half that.

So far, President Carter seems unable to convince business that such a rate is temporary, and that he intends to stay clear of a long relationship with fiscal evil. They listen to him, they listen to his treasury secretary and his chief economic adviser. But they doubt.

Talks with various top executives reveal the suspicion. An unbalanced budget, a fiscally liberal Congress, social programs, even trade protectionism are mentioned as the seeds of destructive inflation, to be followed by some sort of wageprice controls.

That the President's spokesmen time after time insist that controls aren't part of his program doesn't seem to count. Circumstance might force his hand, they say. Didn't a Republican, Richard Nixon, impose controls?

The stock market, once thought of as a general economic forecaster but, now that it is institutionalized, more a reflection of the thinking of big money, is most noticeably affected by the thinking. It is frightened, the strong economy notwithstanding.

The mood of foreboding stands out clearly because of the background against which it is displayed. Business is good, having recovered swiftly from the little ice age. And most future indicators are strong also.

But the mood blankets such considerations. Merrill Lynch Economics begins a 48-page "Business Outlook" with the words: "Both Congress and the Administration are continuing to display a relaxed, and worrisome, attitude with regard to inflation."

The fear also seems to be inconsistent.

The very executives who fear for the future of the economy are also showing signs of committing themselves to higher capital spending after a lag of many months.

And while one publication of a large bank expresses confidence that the recent acceleration of the Consumer Price Index "is a short-lived blip," another worries that the rate could continue into 1978.

What joins all these views is a deep concern. Inflation is a villain from almost every point of view, and its mere presence in the vicinity is a reason for continuing worry.

Like early man huddled around the campfire at night, everyone knows that something is rustling out there in the darkness, maybe getting closer, and their memories of what that something can do are too recent and painful to ignore.

Legal Death Definition Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Assured by a law professor that the legislature is an appropriate forum, a House judiciary subcommittee will give further study to a bill that would legally define death.

Judiciary Chairman Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, assigned the measure Thursday to subcommittee for nuts and bolts work after hearing testimony from a law professor who has spent two years researching the issue.

Dr. Lance Tibbles, an associate professor at Capital University here, said the legislature has the capacity for "input of the public."

Tibbles told the panel that the question of determining when death occurs, has arisen because of recent improvements in life support devices, such as resuscitators, and controversy over organ transplants.

He said the Ohio bill, cosponsored by Reps. Scribner Fauver, R-54 Elyria, and Robert A. Nader, D-55 Warren, took the right approach. It attempts to answer the question of when to declare death, Tibbles said, rather than "when to allow to die."

Death occurs, under the bill, Tibbles said: if heart and lung functions cease; brain functions cannot continue, and if there is no brain activity and respiration has to be maintained artificially, the person is dead.

The legislation was assigned to a subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Terry H. Tranter, D-27 Cincinnati, for further study.

Kansas City, Mo., has "electrified caves" up to 600 feet underground which contain more than 100 million square feet of warehouses, offices and factories.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Would you consider moving down the street for five dollars?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My mother has glaucoma of the right eye. Whenever I mention this to anyone marijuana is suggested to cure it. I always have the feeling that the young people are much more interested in the marijuana than they are in the glaucoma. She is 54.

Miss S.K.B., N.C.

Dear Miss B.:

Glaucoma is an eye condition in which there is an increased pressure of fluid within the eyeball.

A simple test is quickly and painlessly done with a tonometer. This measures the pressure and shows the slightest increase of fluid tension. There are a number of different types of glaucoma. These are technical differences that can be identified only by eye specialists.

As to treatment with marijuana, I, too, have read about and seen on television that highly publicized man who has glaucoma and who has been givel legal permission to smoke marijuana because it benefits his eye condition.

It's difficult for me to believe that marijuana is the only form of treatment for his glaucoma. Even if it were, should he openly flaunt smoking marijuana on television talk shows?

Any possible relationship between marijuana and glaucoma should remain within the province of medicine. It should not be used as another means of spreading the gospel of this highly controversial drug.

There are many excellent drugs that are successfully used to control glaucoma. For greater safety, have your mother follow the specific instructions of her eye specialist.

My urine was examined during a health insurance examination. I was not turned down. But my urine was found to be highly acid. What does this mean?

Mr. N. E., Mich.

Dear Mr. E.:

A single specimen of urine that is either highly acid or highly alkaline is of no medical importance. This can occur in many people who are in excellent health. Diet and medication may make the urine vary in acidity from day to day.

More important than the acidity of the urine is the microscopic examination of it, and the study of its chemical and mineral contents.

There seems to be no reason for your concern.

Emmy Show May Not Come Off

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A dispute within the organization that backs the annual Emmy awards and a threatened boycott by past winners such as Mary Tyler Moore and Carroll O'Connor may scuttle this year's televised show.

NBC said Thursday it was postponing the scheduled May 15 program. The network also said that if the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences does not come up with a suitable proposal by April 15, it will cancel the telecast.

It would be the first time in 27 years the awards program was not aired.

In addition to the threatened star boycott, there was a wholesale refusal by stars and producers to submit nominations for the awards.

The program honoring TV achievements could become the latest victim of a dispute between New York and Hollywood factions of the academy.

After several years of wrangling, the National Academy earlier this year expelled its Hollywood chapter, which represents nearly half its 11,000 members.

The chapter promptly reorganized itself as the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences and said it would stage its own awards presentations in September.

Agricultural Weather Advisory Available For Ohio Farmers

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Weather has long been one of the biggest question marks in farming. Indeed, farmers have made crop-growing decisions based on experience, almanacs, the morning sky, and at times, even Uncle Charlie's arthritis. Now more scientific help is available to them.

From April 1 through November, Ohio farmers will be able to get up-to-date agricultural weather forecasts twice daily from radio stations in their area. These forecasts will be available to newspapers through one of the press wire services and through the National Weather Service's VHF radio. They will be originated from the NWS office in Cleveland.

Perhaps even more important, an agricultural weather advisory is being carried by nearly 50 Ohio radio stations, twice daily. These advisories include an interpretation of weather effects on current crop situations, field operations and livestock conditions, weather-disease effects and weather-insect relationships.

Advisories are released about 5:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. by the National Weather Service meteorologists at Purdue University. The radio stations carry them at different times, but each station is expected to broadcast the advisories at the same time each day, Monday through Saturday.

Early morning advisories are directed toward major weather effects anticipated for the next 3-to-5 day period. The later advisories carry more details and can include information from specialists of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service.

A total of 25 weather reporting units in Ohio will provide information for the agricultural advisories. Of these, 11 are located at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center and its branches throughout the state. The OARDC sources will provide weather information with more agricultural details than the other reporting stations.

At least once a week the NWS meteorologists at Purdue will contact Extension Service specialists at The Ohio State University. These represent the departments of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, Agricultural Engineering, Agronomy, Dairy Science, Entomology, Horticulture, Natural Resources, Plant Pathology, Poultry Science, Animal Science and Veterinary Medicine.

The agricultural weather forecasts, also available twice daily, include regular forecast items plus the per cent of sunshine, rainfall amounts, humidity range, drying conditions, dew intensity and duration, frost and freezing, temperatures, soil temperatures and livestock weather safety index. Twice a month, the weather report will include a 30-day weather outlook.

The Ohio weather advisories are part of a five-state project by the NWS meteorologists at Purdue. The project also includes advisories for Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Michigan.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

Sealed bids for the purchase of $225,000 of bonds of the City of Circleville, Ohio (herein referred to as the Issuer), will be received by the undersigned officer in his offices in the City Hall, 133 South Court Street, Circleville, Ohio 43113, until 11:00 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, on the 3rd date of May, 1977, at which time the bids will be opened and read publicly. Bids for the bonds, which were authorized by legislation enacted on April 5, 1977, shall be sealed and endorsed "Bid for Hospital Improvement Bonds", and each bid shall be made only for all or none of such bonds.

It is contemplated that the bond issuing authority will meet at 7:30 o'clock p.m., on the 3rd day of May, 1977, to consider the bids and make an award.

The bonds will be dated the first day of May, 1977, will be in the denomination of $5,000 each, and will draw interest payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December of each year, beginning December 1, 1977, at the rate of five and one-half per centum (5½ per cent) per annum. Anyone desiring to do so may present a bid for said bonds based upon their bearing a different single rate of interest, but not in excess of eight per centum (8 per cent) per annum, provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be one-eighth of one percent or a multiple thereof. Split rate bids with supplemental coupons will not be considered.

The bonds mature as follows: $15,000 on December 1 in each of the years from 1978 to 1992, both inclusive.

The bonds are issued for the purpose of constructing an addition and improvements to the Berger Hospital.

The bonds are payable, without deduction for the services of the Issuer's paying agent, at the principal office of the legal depositary of the Issuer, presently The Third National Bank of Circleville, Circleville, Ohio and unless paid from other sources, are to be paid by the levy of ad valorem taxes within the limitations imposed by law, subject to the provisions of Chapter IX of the federal Bankruptcy Act and other laws affecting creditors' rights.

The proceedings for this issue have been taken under the supervision of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, whose approving opinion will be furnished at the cost of the successful bidder and will be printed on the bonds. The Issuer will pay the cost of printing the bonds. A completed transcript of proceedings will be furnished by the Issuer, together with a certificate showing no litigation pending or threatened at the time of the delivery to enjoin delivery or to contest the validity of the bonds or the power to issue them or the levy or collection of taxes for their payment.

CUSIP numbers will be printed on the bonds if available and requested by the successful bidder. Any delay, error or omission with respect thereto shall not constitute cause for the successful bidder to refuse to accept delivery of and pay for the bonds. Any CUSIP Service Bureau charge for the assignment of the numbers shall be the responsibility of the successful bidder.

The bids will promptly be considered, and the bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate at not less than par and accrued interest. The lowest interest rate will be determined by calculating the total interest to stated maturity at the rate bid and deducting therefrom any premium bid. If each of two or more bids is the highest bid offering the lowest interest rate, the bonds will be awarded on such one of the highest bids as is chosen by lot. All bids must be accompanied by cash, bank cashier's or official's check or certified check payable to the Issuer, or any combination thereof, aggregating one percent of the par amount of the bonds, upon the condition that, if the bid is accepted, the bidder will receive and pay for the bonds in accordance with the terms and provisions of this notice. No bank bidding for the bonds shall file its own cashier's or official's check, nor a check certified by it. Such security shall be held by the Issuer unused pending delivery of the bonds and forfeited as full liquidated damages in the event of default by the successful bidder.

In the event that, prior to their delivery, the interest on the bonds should by act of Congress or otherwise become subject to Federal income taxes, or any act of Congress should provide that the interest income on the bonds shall be taxable at a future date for Federal income tax purposes, whether directly or indirectly, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bid security shall be returned without interest.

The bonds shall be delivered for payment within the State of Ohio to the successful bidder or to a bank designated by the successful bidder without charge. If delivered at a place outside of the State of Ohio, the successful bidder shall pay the expense of delivery at that place. The expense of delivery within the State of Ohio shall not be considered in determining the highest bidder.

Before making tender of the bonds at the place of delivery, the Issuer shall give written notice to the successful bidder not later than the fifth business day before the proposed tender, of the fact that the bonds, transcript, no-litigation certificate and approving opinion will be available for delivery and giving the date and hour for the tender at the place of delivery, provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of a mutually agreeable arrangement for the delivery of the bonds either at the place fixed for delivery or elsewhere.

If such notice has not been given by the Issuer or waived by the successful bidder and the bonds, transcript, no-litigation certificate and approving opinion are not available for delivery to the successful bidder at such place of delivery on or before 12:00 o'clock noon of the 30th calendar day after the day fixed for the receipt of bids, and the successful bidder shall not be in default of any of his obligations, he shall have the right thereafter, and so long as no such tender by the Issuer shall yet have been made, to cancel the contract of purchase. Any such right shall be exercised by dellvering written notice of such cancellation to the undersigned or to the office of the undersigned during business hours. Such bidder shall thereupon be entitled to the return of the deposit which accompanied his bid and it shall be returned to him immediately.

The right is reserved to reject bids.

And So It Grows

BY STEVE BARTELS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Lengthening days of late winter and premature spring are promising the warmer weather of spring. Warm rains have thawed out the frozen ground and brought large juicy night crawlers to the soil's surface at night. The lure of the waterways is beginning to beckon thousands of fishermen to their favorite sport.

Fishing is America's number one sport. Every year about one out of every three adults takes part in the sport of fishing. Over 50 million Americans are fishermen who spend time at many rivers, streams, lakes, ponds and oceans.

Boys and girls also have an opportunity of joining 4-H and participating in America's number one sport of fishing. Four-H members may participate in two relatively new 4-H fishing projects introduced into the Ohio 4-H program.

The winter of 1976 was a very harsh winter and some Ohio lakes and ponds received severe damage due to large fish kills caused by deep ice and snow coverings. However, all other signs point toward a good year for 1977 fishermen in Ohio. Greater progress has been made in the control of water pollution and new areas for fishing are increasing.

Great strides have been made by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources in re-establishing sport fishing with Walleyes, Lake Trout, Striped Bass and other species of fish that were nearly lost to Ohioans.

Fishing may not only be fun, but also is exciting. Waiting for the first morning's catch on a nice day can be just as exciting as a four-year-old waiting to look under the Christmas tree on Christmas morning.

The formation of 4-H outdoor adventure clubs may give youth and adults many opportunities to learn. A club provides the best way to share ideas, skills and abilities of several people rather than just those of an individual. A 4-H club enables youth and adults to pool their resources so they may camp, fish and have various new experiences in the out-of-doors.

You can be involved in 4-H no matter what your age may be. Youth between nine and nineteen may become 4-H members. Adults interested in fishing and the out-of-doors can share their knowledge, interests and expertise as adult 4-H advisors.

Through the efforts of 4-H fishing projects, it is hoped that youth will find that fishing will not only be fun, but will open many doors to new adventures about water, camping, outdoor cooking, boating, conservation, ecology, plus many more life-time, leisure-time experiences.

This 4-H fishing experience may also provide for adults and youth, the setting to talk and better understand one another. Through 4-H, you will not only have the time of your life, but may also catch the big one that got away!

For further information about becoming a member of a 4-H fishing club of volunteering as an adult leader, contact your County Extension Office, at 474-7534.

Remember to check the 1977 Ohio fishing regulation requirements for licenses and other laws and regulations.

The third and final advisor training session will be Tuesday, April 12, at 8 p.m., at the 4-H and Grange Building. We will be covering the advisor program book, program planning, working with committees in the local club, what committees do you need, what makes a meeting, officer training, working with executive committees, project work ideas, health and safety activities, advisors vs. leaders, and securing parent cooperation. The last part of the meeting will deal with specific project area ideas.

Be sure to let the members in your club know we are going to have a lamb and swine selection clinic at the fairgrounds on April 26 at 8 p.m. We will talk about the size and quality of animal to look for, feed programs, disease problems and have animals for everyone to look at.

For people interested in gardening, the Mrs. G. Arden Clinic is scheduled for Saturday, April 23, at 10 a.m. Members will sign up for the project, get their seeds and be trained on how to plant their gardens. They will receive free lettuce, green beans, onion, and squash.

They will be visited by Mrs. G. Arden helpers during the summer, are eligible for camp and for the fair, but do not have to attend regularly scheduled meetings.

They can send their questions to Mrs. G. Arden at P.O. Box 29, Circleville. She will answer them in the paper and on the radio.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Angelo Wants It All In The Family

DEAR ABBY: Angelo and I have an unusually good marriage. He's considerate, generous and loving. His only fault is not wanting outsiders for friends. (He considers anyone outside his family an "outsider.") Angelo comes from a large and clannish family. They're nice people, and I really like them. I like apple pie, too, but I don't want it seven nights a week!

When ever an outsider invites us over, my husband says, "Let's not get involved." The only people we ever see socially are his relatives.

We've taken some fabulous trips, but he always has to have a brother, sister or cousin along. Now he wants to plan a trip to Europe with his parents!

Am I unreasonable to want to socialize with somebody besides his relatives? What's wrong with him?

SMOTHERED IN RELATIVES

DEAR SMOTHERED: I suspect your husband is reluctant to face the challenge of new and unfamiliar social situations. Your're not unreasonable to want friends who aren't relatives. Hang in there and encourage Angelo to expand his social boundaries. It will add a new dimension to your considerate, generous and loving man.

DEAR ABBY: I am moving to Atlanta, Ga., and several friends here have said, "You MUST look up 'Mr. Wonderful'—here's his name and phone number. Just call and say you are a friend of mine."

Abby, is it proper for a new woman in town to call a stranger and put him on the spot that way? I can't just call a man and say, "Hello, I'm Margaret Brown. I'm 35, divorced, have two children and am self-supporting. I'm attractive, a lot of fun, my measurements are 36-25-37, and Howard Hossenfeffer told me to call you."

I'm afraid if I don't call I might miss something, and if I do call, I'll appear pushy. How should this be handled?

FROM TAMPA

DEAR TAMPA: Ask all your big-hearted friends to write "Mr. Wonderful" and suggest that he call YOU. That way, the go-between can clue the friend in on all the vital statistics and leave it to him to call you if he's interested.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you print this. I'm sick and tired of people telling me to smile. If I'm not smiling and they don't like it, they can always look the other way.

I've had people come up to me and ask who I'm mad at just because I'm not smiling. That really bugs me.

Friends and relatives keep telling me I should smile more. Abby, if a person doesn't smile, there could be a reason for it. They could have a serious problem or some kind of illness, and they don't appreciate having some stupid idiot tell them to smile.

If someone is ugly or sick, you wouldn't go up to them and say, "Boy, are you every ugly," or, "Gee, you look sick." To me it's the same thing.

NO GEISHA GIRL

DEAR NO: I understand your irritation, but I don't agree with you. Facial expressions are habit-forming. A smile is a universal, unspoken bid for friendship. A gloomy countenance, for whatever reason, turns people off. Think about it.

When you can find celeriac (celery root) in a market, it will make a delicious dish if you treat it this way. Pare, slice thin and then cut into fine strips; parboil, drain and cool. Toss with a dressing made with olive oil, white wine vinegar, Dijon mustard, salt and pepper; serve on lettuce with a sprinkling of minced parsley or fresh tarragon.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

Motor vehicles registration, driver's license renewal, aerosol sprays, and voter registration were among the subjects affected by recent legislative action in the Ohio General Assembly.

Lawmakers in the House of Representatives approved a major revision of Ohio's motor vehicle registration process on Thursday April 7. If enacted, the legislation, House Bill 3 sponsored by Columbus Representative Jim Baumann, would implement a twelve-month staggered registration system with optional registration renewal by mail and would require annual contracts between the State and deputy registrars.

Presently, license tags and stickers for renewal registrations are issued annually only during the months of March, April and May. Under House Bill 3, the State Registrar of Motor Vehicles would establish a twelve-month staggered registration system whereby approximately one-twelfth of the annual renewal registrations would be handled each month. The monthly staggered system could be based upon date of purchase, class of vehicle or alphabetical order; the type of system would be determined by the State Registrar.

The purpose of the staggered registration system is to distribute the registration work evenly throughout the year. A twelve-month staggered system would also serve to reduce the long lines at deputy registrar's offices which occur near the end of the present registration periods.

House Bill 3 would also permit motor vehicle owners to renew their registration by mail for an additional charge of $1.50. Owners could also renew in person at local deputy registrar's offices.

In addition, deputy registrars would be under closer scrutiny by the State under House Bill 3. The measure would require annual contracts between the State Registrar and deputy registrars and would include terms relating to office location and size, personnel, business hours, etc.

In a related development, the House passed legislation on Tuesday, April 5, that would require the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to notify drivers of the impending expiration of their driver's license.

The intent of the bill, House Bill 215 sponsored by Cleveland Representative Harry Lehman, is to lessen the number of persons retaking driver examinations because they forgot to renew their license.

In another House action, legislation to prohibit the sale of chlorofluorocarbon aerosol spray products was approved Wednesday, April 6, The aerosol measure, House Bill 232, would exempt aerosol products designed for medical uses.

The bill is sponsored by Representative Dennis Eckart of Euclid and is in response to research demonstrating potential environmental damage caused by the aerosol sprays.

Meanwhile, the Senate Wednesday approved a comprehensive voter registration reform bill, Senate Bill 125.

Senate Bill 125, sponsored by Dayton Senator Tony Hall, would require statewide voter registration as a precondition for voting. The measure would also require the Ohio Secretary of State to maintain a master list of registered voters.

Presently there are some counties in the state that do not have voter registration requirements.

Senate Bill 125 would also permit voter registration by mail, door-to-door registration, and registration at the polls on election day.

Current law provides that where voter registration exists, prospective voters can generally only register in person at the county board of elections or at board branch offices.

The purpose of Senate Bill 125 is to reduce the potential for fraud through statewide registration, yet maximize voter participation by facilitating voter registration.

ORDINANCE NO. 17-77

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE ISSUANCE OF $225,000 OF BONDS FOR THE PURPOSE OF CONSTRUCTING AN ADDITION AND IMPROVEMENTS TO THE BERGER HOSPITAL, AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, there is now outstanding an issue of notes in the aggregate principal amount of $225,000 dated May 28, 1976, which notes were originally issued for the purpose stated in section 1 hereof; and

WHEREAS, this Council has determined that it is necessary to issue the bonds herein authorized to provide funds to retire the aforesaid outstanding notes maturing May 28, 1977; and

WHEREAS, the Auditor of this City, as fiscal officer, has certified as to the maximum maturity of the bonds herein proposed to be issued;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio:

Section 1. That it is hereby declared necessary to issue bonds of the City of Circleville in that principal sum of $225,000 for the purpose of constructing an addition and improvements to the Berger Hospital.

Section 2. That said bonds shall be dated the first day of May, 1977; shall be in the denomination of $5,000 each; shall be coupon bonds payable to bearer at the principal office of the legal depositary of the issuer, presently, The Third National Bank of Circleville, Circleville, Ohio; and shall bear interest at the rate of five and one-half per centum (5-½ per cent) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of June and the first day of December of each year, commencing December 1, 1977, until the principal sum is paid, upon presentation and surrender of the proper interest coupons which shall be attached to said bonds, provided, however, that if said bonds are sold bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore specified, such bonds shall bear such rate of interest as may be provided for in the resolution awarding the same.

Section 3. Said bonds shall be numbered from 1 to 45, both inclusive, and shall mature in the following amounts and on the following dates, to wit: $15,000 on December 1 in each of the years from 1978 to 1992, both inclusive, which maturities are hereby determined to be in substantially equal annual installments. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and the Auditor and bear the seal of the Corporation; provided, however, that the seal and all but one of such signatures may be facsimiles. The interest coupons attached to said bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the Auditor.

Section 4. For the payment of said principal and said interest coupons thereto attached the full faith, credit and revenue of the City are hereby irrevocably pledged.

Section 5. There shall be and is hereby levied on all the taxable property in this City in addition to all other taxes a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said bonds as and when the same falls due and to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section 11 of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution.

Section 6. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levy hereby required shall be placed in a separate fund, which, together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds, when and as the same fall due; provided however, that in each year to the extent that the income from the Berger Hospital is available for the payment of such bonds and is appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of such income so available and appropriated.

Section 7. Said bonds shall be offered to the Treasurer as officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund at par and accrued interest and so many thereof as shall not be purchased shall be advertised and sold in accordance with law. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except any premium and accrued interest thereon, shall be paid into the proper fund and used for the purpose for which said bonds are being issued, including fees and costs incurred in connection with the preparation of plans, specifications and other bidding documents, publication of legal notices, printing and delivery of the bonds, legal services of bond and other special counsel, and all other costs incurred in connection with or incidental to such purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

Section 8. The City hereby covenants that it will restrict the use of the proceeds of the bonds in such manner and to such extent, if any, as may be necessary, after taking into account reasonable expectations at the time the debt is incurred, so that they will not constitute arbitrage bonds under Section 103(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations prescribed under that section. The Auditor as fiscal officer, or any other officer having responsibility with respect to the issuance of such bonds is authorized and directed to give an appropriate certificate on behalf of the City, for inclusion in the transcript of proceedings, setting forth the facts, estimates and circumstances and reasonable expectations regarding the amount and use of the proceeds of such bonds pursuant to said Section 103(c) and regulations thereunder.

Section 9. The Clerk of Council is hereby authorized and directed to publish notice of sale of these bonds in the manner required by Section 133.36, Ohio Revised Code, and also to publish a notice of such sale one time in the Daily Bond Buyer. The Clerk is also authorized, if he deems it in the best interest of this City, and directed to secure a rating for these bonds from Moody's Investors Service, Inc.

Section 10. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in the issuance of said bonds in order to make the same legal, valid and binding obligations of said City have happened, been done and performed in regular and due form as required by law; and that the amount of indebtedness to be incurred by the issuance of these bonds does not exceed any limitation of indebtedness as fixed by law.

Section 11. It is found and determined that all formal actions of this Council concerning and relating to the adoption of this resolution were adopted in an open meeting of this Council and that all deliberations of this Council and of any of its committees that resulted in such formal action, were in meetings open to the public, in compliance with all legal requirements including Section 121.22 of the Ohio Revised Code.

Section 12. The Clerk of Council is hereby directed to certify a copy of this resolution to the County Auditor.

Section 13. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety of said City and for the further reason that the immediate issuance of the bonds herein provided for is necessary in order to retire at maturity the outstanding notes and thereby preserve the credit of the City; wherefore, this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

Dust After Flood Plagues Kentucky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky families working to salvage what remained of their homes and belongings in the wake of floods faced a new problem this weekend: dust.

"The stuff is so heavy, it's really making it difficult to breathe, particularly for people with respiratory problems," said Jim Morgan, a radio station employe in Harlan.

The dust developed as warm temperatures and heavy traffic hit tons of mud left by the receding floodwaters.

Trucks continued to move relief supplies and cleanup equipment to affected areas. Officials directing traffic wore face masks for protection.

Authorities said curious onlookers and some looters continued to be a problem.

Relief agencies were housinge and feeding thousands of homeless families in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Tennessee.

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service said the rains that fell Sunday through Wednesday in the mountains of West Virginia and eastern Kentucky probably amounted to more than the average six inches earlier estimated.

"We had to have 7.5 inches or more to get this much water downstream," said Cincinnati weatherman Wayne Heath. He said some areas probably had more than 10 inches.

The weather service forecast some flooding along the Ohio River downstream through Thursday, including a 39-foot crest — six feet above flood stage — at Paducah, Ky., early Thursday morning.

Officials said damage should be minor.

Four People Injured In Accidents

Four people were injured in two auto accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Charmaine Betts, 19, Route 3, and Willa Coleman, 17, Route 2, Williamsport, suffered leg injuries in a two-vehicle accident 3:50 p.m. Friday on Route 22 in front of the Waste Water Treatment plant.

Both woman were treated by the Circleville Emergency Medical Team, and Ms. Coleman received further care at Berger Hospital.

William D. Fowler, 68, Route 2, driver of the other vehicle involved in the crash, was not hurt.

According to Deputy Jim Fite, Ms. Betts was driving west on Route 22 and was in the process of passing a slow moving vehicle when she struck Fowler's truck, which was headed east.

Deputy Fite charged her with driving left of center.

Teral Lee Tipton, 17, 447 Market St., Tarlton, and Aldo R. Morrison, 19, Route 2, Amanda, were injured when their car crashed into the Salt Creek Bridge on Route 56 5:40 a.m. Saturday.

Tipton, the driver of the car, suffered cuts and abrasions to his nose and tongue. Morrison suffered lacerations to his scalp and forehead.

They were treated by the Tarlton Emergency Squad and received further care at Berger Hospital.

Deputy Jim Bigman said Tipton was driving west on Route 56 when he drove off the right side of the road and hit the end of the bridge, six-tenths of a mile east of the Tarlton-Adelphi Road.

Watson, Funseth Leading Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Watson refuses to think about winning the Masters golf championship. Rod Funseth can't even picture himself on top.

Like it or not, those two found themselves with a one-stroke lead heading into the third round of this prestigious tournament today at the 7,030-yard Augusta National Golf Club course.

Watson, a young man who knows how to win but also finds ways to give away victories, fashioned a three-under-par 69 Friday to go with his opening-round 70.

Funseth, a relatively anonymous veteran who doesn't exactly exude self-confidence, birdied four straight holes to carve out a 67 to go with an earlier 72.

Their five-under-par totals of 139 gave them the lead, but 23 of the world's finest players were bunched within five shots of them and preparing to make a run for possibly the most coveted golf title in the world.

Among those challengers were unawed rookie Bill Kratzert and Ben Crenshaw, one back at 140; first-round leader Hubert Green and South African Gary Player, 141; five-time Masters champ Jack Nicklaus and sore-armed Jerry Pate, 142; defending champion Raymond Floyd, 143, and perennial Masters runnerup Tom Weiskopf, 144.

Thirty-three players in the international field of 76 shot par or better Friday in near-perfect weather. The temperature was in the 80s but the wind, as it had for the first round, picked up in the afternoon and caused a club-selection problem for many of the players.

Watson wasn't bothered much. He birdied all four par 5s and needed to par the 18th for sole possession of the lead. But he pulled a 5-iron on the 420-yard par 4 and had to settle for bogey.

Morgan, Reds Burn Padres, 6-3

CINCINNATI (AP) — A camp stove in the Cincinnati Reds dugout may not replace golf gloves, but it helped Joe Morgan.

Wielding a thawed-out bat, the bantam-sized Cincinnati Reds slugger burned the San Diego Padres Friday night at chilly Riverfront Stadium.

The series resumed today before a 4 p.m. EST national television audience. The Reds, trying to make it three in a row, sent Fred Norman, 12-7 last year, against Dave Freisleben, 2-3.

Morgan, whose bat usually goes into a deep freeze as temperatures dip, exploded for a three-run homer and drove in a fourth run with a sacrifice fly to pace the Reds to a 6-3 victory, their 10th straight over two seasons.

His secret? A camping stove.

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson and batting coach Ted Kluszewski cooked up the idea after Morgan complained that he couldn't grip the bat sufficiently by wearing golf gloves.

"I have a problem hitting with gloves on. I don't get the grip I need," said the Reds 5-foot-7 second baseman.

"They kept my bat handle warm by putting it over the stove," said Morgan, sheepishly.

"I depend on bat speed so much I have to have the feel. I like to feel the bat is a part of me, an extension of my arm," he said.

While Morgan was finding success with a warm bat, pitcher Jack Billingham welcomed back a long-lost friend—his curve ball.

"Jack's going like he did when he first came here. He's got his curve back," said Anderson.

Billingham, starting in place of ailing Pat Zachry, fired six shutout innings before being chased in the eighth by Gene Tenace's two-run home run.

"My new motion has helped me," said Billingham, a 34-year-old righthander who won 19 games in 1973 but stumbled to 12-10 last year. "I started working on it last year when I was in the doghouse."

The 6-foot-4 Billingham said he has adopted a more compact delivery, cutting down unnecessary motion.

"Now I'm more like a ballet dancer out there," he said, with tongue firmly in cheek.

Morgan's homer gave Billingham a 5-0 margin after the Reds took advantage of three straight walks by Padres' starter Brent Strom and two runscoring ground outs for a 2-0 first inning lead.

"I gave them two runs. I was too keyed up. When a team doesn't hit the ball out of the infield and ends up with two runs, it is the pitcher's fault," said Strom, now 2-7 lifetime against Cincinnati.

His home run pitch to Morgan backfired. "He looks for the breaking pitch against left-handers, so I've been throwing him a lot of fastballs. It was a fastball, down," Strom said.

Padres' Manager John McNamara capsulized the loss.

"You can't defense walks and home runs," he said.

Mariners Shock Angels, 7-6

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Put away the record books. The Seattle Mariners are not going to go all season without scoring a run or winning a game, but even some of the players were starting to think along those lines.

"I think this victory got us over the hump. After the first two games when we didn't get any runs at all, we were kind of wondering whether we ever would," said Larry Milbourne, whose RBI double capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning that lifted the Mariners to the first victory in their three-game history, a 7-6 triumph over the California Angels Friday night.

"Easy game. We had it all the way," kidded Manager Darrell Johnson, whose club first rallied from a 3-0 deficit, then blew a 5-3 lead in the eighth inning and fell behind 6-5 in the top of the ninth. "This is certainly going to relax a lot of people."

As pinch runner Jose Baez crossed the plate with the winning run, lifting the no-name Mariners over the Ryan-Tanana-Rudi-Grich-Baylor Angels, the public address system in the Seattle Kingdome blared forth with the theme from hit movie "Rocky" about one of life's biggest underdogs.

The Mariners' dramatic triumph was the only game in the American League. In National League action, the Cincinnati Reds downed the San Diego Padres 6-3 and the Houston Astros edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2 in 11 innings.

This time, the Mariners weren't facing Frank Tanana or Nolan Ryan, who blanked them in the first two games. They erased a 3-0 deficit in the fourth, getting three runs off Gary Ross to tie the game. Dan Meyer had the honor of driving in the Mariners' first run with a double that scored Dave Collins.

Bill Stein singled to lead off the bottom of the ninth against John Verhoeven and scored the tying run on Bob Stinson's double. Craig Reynolds was walked intentionally but Milbourne came through with his game-winning hit.

Reds 6, Padres 3

Joe Morgan, the NL's Most Valuable Player the last two seasons, drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a sacrifice fly as the world champion Reds made it two in a row over San Diego. Morgan helped stake Jack Billingham to a 5-0 lead in the fifth inning when he belted a 400-foot homer off Brent Strom.

Billingham yielded a run in the seventh and departed with two out in the eighth after giving up a two-run homer to Gene Tenace, his first as a National Leaguer.

Astros 3, Braves 2

Joe Ferguson, one of four newcomers in Houston's starting lineup, blasted a leadoff home run off Bob Johnson in the bottom of the 11th to win the game.

J.R. Richard and Ken Forsch blanked the Braves after they took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Jeff Burroughs' two-run homer on his first time at bat in the National League. The Astros tied it on a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz in the first inning and a run-scoring double by Willie Crawford in the sixth.

Logan Elm Big Bats Batter Teays Valley

ANTICIPATION — Debbie Larson waits for the ball in anticipation of a hit in Thursday's game with Teays Valleys' Vikings. The Braves enjoyed a big afternoon at the plate, as they garnered 35 hits and moved 32 runs across the plate.

Logan Elm's girls unleashed a 35-hit plate barrage as they stopped Teays Valley 32-7.

Babe Stump was on the mound for the Braves and she scattered 14 hits, two walks and failed to come up with a strike out.

Ledford and Stewart shared the hill for Teays Valley. They gave up a total of 35 hits, three walks and fanned one.

Dianne Martin, Weaver, and Beth Bell all slammed homers for the Braves. Also putting the wood to the ball for the Logan Elm girls were Debbie Larson, Brenda Bell, Annette Roof, Cave, Stump, Gifford, Gabriel, Karr, Parker and Ebert.

Belting the ball for Teays Valley were Fields, Crumley, Hill, Bell, Gray, McPherson and Stewart.

Wounded Bob Lanier Leads Pistons Win

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

"This is a tough time of year to get a guy to play," said New York Knicks Coach Red Holzman.

Well, that's one man's opinion. Around the National Basketball Association there are several players who wouldn't agree.

One of them is Detroit Pistons center Bob Lanier, who returned to the team's lineup Friday night after a month's absence with a broken right hand. Lanier wore a special pad on the sore hand as he led Detroit to a 116-112 victory over Philadelphia.

"I sat down with Oscar Feldman (Pistons General Manager) this morning and said I couldn't play," noted Lanier after he played 38 minutes and scored 25 points as the Pistons remained one-half game ahead of Chicago in the NBA Midwest second-division battle. "Then I sat around at home all day and realized that Philly was coming to town and Dr. J was here.

"I told my wife I was going to play and she said I was crazy. It wasn't so much a matter of pride as a lack of common sense on my part."

In other pressure games, the Bulls—the NBA's hottest team—remained within striking distance of Detroit with a 113-109 victory over Houston; the Boston Celtics moved within a game of Cleveland in the race for the fifth spot overall in the Eastern Conference playoffs with a 120-109 triumph over New Orleans, and Los Angeles clinched the best regular season record in the league with a 124-100 triumph over the New York Nets.

Meanwhile, Holzman's Knicks edged the Buffalo Braves 104-102, the Milwaukee Bucks stopped the Atlanta Hawks 118-107, the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Kansas City Kings 112-105 and the Portland Trail Blazers eased past the Phoenix Suns, 122-111.

ODNR To Take Camping Reservations Soon

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) will begin taking reservations April 29 for campsites at 12 of the most popular Ohio state parks.

"Campers can make reservations up to four weeks in advance beginning April 29 for the Memorial Day weekend through the Labor Day weekend," said Ralph Vanzant, Chief of ODNR's Division of Parks and Recreation.

Figures compiled by ODNR show 21,142 campers have used the reservation system since it was initiated in 1975.

Parks under the system are: Cowan Lake, Delaware, Dillon, East Harbor, Hocking Hills, Hueston Woods, Indian Lake, Lake Hope, Mohican, Pymatuning, Salt Fork and Stonelick state parks.

Persons wishing to make reservations should call, write or drop by the park of their choice between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"Reservations are not required, but are recommended, especially for the camper who cannot get to the parks until after 5 p.m., "Vanzant said. "Reservations will also assure the camper a site on busy holiday weekends."

"Up to 50 per cent of the campsites are available for reservation, depending on the demand at a particular park," Vanzant said. The remaining campsites at each park are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

A $1.50 fee is charged for each reservation made. Campers can make reservations for one other site in addition to their own. Families wishing to camp together can rent adjacent sites if the sites are available.

Campsites are reserved for a minimum of two days and a maximum of 14 days. Reserved sites will be held until 8 p.m. the day the camper is scheduled to arrive, unless the park is notified of late arrivals.

Campsites vary in description from park to park but there are three basic types, Class A, Class B and Primitive.

Class "A", $4 per day, have a pad for parking cars or trailers, pressurized water, drinking fountains, waste water drains, flush toilets, showers, marked lots, trash containers, picnic tables and fire rings. There are electric outlets at most Class A campsites.

Class "B" sites from $2 to $3 per day depending on whether or not electrical outlets are available, have trailer pads, approved wells or hydrant water, lighted vault-type latrines, waste water drains, marked lots, trash bins, tables and fire rings.

Primitive campsites, which have pit-type latrines, trash containers and waste water drains, are available without charge. They do not come under the reservation system.

Persons holding Golden Buckeye Cards and disabled Ohioans with proof of their disability from the appropriate state or federal agency, can camp for half price from Sunday night through Thursday night. Disabled veterans with eligibility certification from the Veterans Administration may camp free at state parks. But all who use the reservation system must pay the $1.50 reservation fee.

A brochure describing the campsite reservation system and listing the addresses and telephone numbers of the state parks in the system is available without charge from the Publications Center, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224.

Wings Post 7-2 Victory Over Flint

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie winger Fern LeBlanc left a hospital bed Friday night in time to score three goals and help the Kalamazoo Wings push the Flint Generals out of the International Hockey League quarterfinal playoffs Friday night.

LeBlanc's scoring outburst helped the Wings post a 7-2 victory as they won the Turner Cup quarterfinal series, four games to one.

In other IHL playoffs, the Saginaw Gears downed the Muskegon Mohawks 4-3 and Columbus defeated Toledo 2-1.

In Kalamazoo, the Wings grabbed a 4-0 first period lead and ran that to 6-2 at the end of two periods.

LeBlanc was carried off the ice Wednesday night after he was dumped on a breakaway, smashing full tilt into a goal post and receiving a severe bruise. He was unable to take the penalty shot then because of his injury. But he made up for it Friday night before a sellout crowd of 5,150 fans.

Wings officials had not counted on him for the game and were surprised when he left his Bronson Hospital bed and suited up for the game.

In Saginaw, center Marcel Comeau scored out of a goalmouth scramble at the 55 second mark of an overtime period to give Saginaw the victory over Muskegon.

The victory gave Saginaw a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The game finished with a blaze of action as referee Fred MainDonald signalled a penalty on Muskegon's Bill Kesell just as Comeau let his shot go.

Kesell protested the winning goal and penalty so strongly he was given a game misconduct.

Cuban Trip Brings Good Comments

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — The South Dakotans returning from a Caribbean trip had more to talk about than sunshine and beaches.

The college basketball players, school officials and assorted fans who arrived Friday had spent five days in Cuba. They were among the more than 100 persons who made up the first large contingent of Americans to visit the nation since Fidel Castro assumed power in 1959.

"They worked so hard to make us comfortable and feel at home," said Gene Zulk, a South Dakota State University coach. "We have nothing but good things to say about Cuba. There were so many things going on besides the two ballgames."

The state university and the University of South Dakota sent a combined team to play two basketball games against Cuban players.

The Cubans won both games by 19-point margins, but they were not the jubilant victors typical in American athletic matches, said Tish DeZonia, who made the trip to cheer for the South Dakotans.

"In the first game we would cheer whenever our team or one of our players did something good," she said. "We soon learned that they would applaud whenever there was a good individual effort on either team."

The games were arranged by South Dakota Sens. George McGovern and James Abourezk, who have traveled to Cuba previously.

One state university graduate, Phil Anderson of Hot Springs, said he was most impressed by the collective farms, schools and "healthy-looking kids" the travelers saw on the island.

"It was the most fabulous experience I've ever had, what else can I say," Anderson said. "They were sincere and very friendly."

The Cubans have been invited to send a team to the U.S. for a match, and coach Zulk is optimistic they will.

Aces Drop Mid State Tilt To LU

Amanda-Clearcreek dropped a 7-2 decision to visiting Liberty Union Friday on the Aces' diamond.

Cloyce Hartley and Willie Crites shared the hill for the Aces. They gave up a total of nine hits, walked four and fanned five.

Scott Brown and Mark Bader handled the mound duties for Liberty Union. They allowed six hits, two walks and whiffed six.

Liberty Union scored a single run in the top of the first, two more in the fourth, one in the sixth and capped it with three big ones in the seventh.

The Aces had a single run in the bottom of the second and another in the fifth.

Gary Frye slammed a double for the Aces, Tim Myers rapped two singles while Ralph Hedrick, Hartley and Bruce Davis each had a single.

Rowland blasted a home run for Liberty while Reed, Castle and Glasspoole each added two hits.

Amanda-Clearcreek is now 1-4 for the season, 0-2 in Mid State play, and will host Logan Elm 2 p.m. today.

Correlation was favored for all three Triple Crown events in 1954 and lost them all.

Pittsburgh Pirate rookie Omar Moreno stole 70 bases last season, 55 for Charleston, W. Va., and 15 for the Pirates.

Stone Age Find

PRAGUE, Czechoslovaki (AP) — An early Stone Age settlement believed to be about 5,000 years old, was discovered in Brezi near Mikulov, on the Czech-Austrian border.

A wine cellar keeper stumbled upon the find when he noticed fragments from ancient vessels protruding from the ground in a newly planted forest.

Between 1932 and 1935 Paraguay and Bolivia fought a war over a desolate plain called the Chaco. Paraguay won the war and the major part of the Chaco.

King Solomon's Mine Discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The legendary lost gold mine of King Solomon has apparently been found in Saudi Arabia, according to the National Geographic Society.

A mine at Jabal Mahd adh Dhahab (the Hill of the Cradle of Gold), mid-way between Mecca and Medina, may be the same as the fabled mine at Ophir, which produced half the gold of the known world 3,000 years ago.

A four-year study of the site by teams from the United States Geological Survey and the Saudi Arabian Directorate General of Mineral Resources recently provided support for the theory that the site is the one mentioned in the Bible.

Scholars speculated that Solomon's mine was somewhere in Arabia, India, southern Africa or the Ural Mountains. In 1931 an American named Kenneth Twitchell prospected Jabal Mahd adh Dhahab. His company, the Saudi Arabia Mining Syndicate, recovered some 60 tons of gold from the hill. Twitchell speculated that the mine might be on the same site as that of King Solomon.

Samuel de Champlain created the Order of the Good Time, the oldest social club in North America.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Personal relationships highly congenial. In fact, your career status may be boosted through an influential person.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Day starts out brightly, and you can keep it that way, if you will. Just be careful not to let irresponsible persons lead you into unconventional activities.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Contribute to mutual understanding between those who are "at odds." Pursue a sound course rather than an expedient one. Show your competence in complex situations.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Plans may have to be changed. Do not become upset: many will be for the better. Especially favored: domestic affairs, outdoor interests, personal relationships.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 21): What attracts may not be really choice, and what you are tempted to brush aside may be just the thing you need. So ... your best judgment needed.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): The attainment of certain desires may not be available NOW, but earnest trying will bring eventual reward. You can act effectively when you have the will.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Through good methods, integrity and following successful past procedures, you can put this day's efforts in the top echelon for rewards, advancement.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a fine mind, a great love of beauty and a lively imagination; could succeed in almost any of the arts, but could reach the greatest heights in painting, music or the theater. Literature is also a fine outlet for your creative impulses and, in this connection, you could especially succeed in promotion or propaganda - the latter because you are usually involved in one "cause" or another. Working for causes, however, your zeal is sometimes misdirected and you could make enemies. Watch out for this. Ferguson Wants Cash From Utilities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Auditor Thomas Ferguson thinks gas utility companies in the state should pay for Gov. James A. Rhodes' trips to the Southwest last winter in search of new supplies of natural gas.

Ferguson said Friday he has asked the Public Utilities Commission to order the gas companies to pay all the expenses incurrred by Rhodes in his recent energy exploration trips to several states.

"Since the utility companies of Ohio failed to do the job of providing sufficient natural gas to their Ohio customers during this past winter, the governor had to go out and do the job for them," Ferguson said.

And the auditor wants the gas utilities to pick the tab of two highway patrolmen who accompanied Rhodes in addition to bills for newspaper advertising of those trips which have been presented to the auditor's office for payment.

"The utility companies stand to make a profit on the sale of any extra gas supplies they procured as a result of the trips," said Ferguson. "They should not be allowed to pass on any item of expense related to those trips to the taxpayers of Ohio, who had to pay for the constantly increasing cost of available gas at home."

Ferguson asked the PUCO to act speedily on his request so that the expense items in his office be disposed of as soon as possible.

Commissioner William Newcomb said he received a copy of Ferguson's request Friday and anticipates that the panel will discuss the matter next week.

While Newcomb noted he could not speculate how the commission as a whole would view Ferguson's proposal, he indicated he personally did not agree with the auditor.

"My feeling is that those trips were not made solely for the benefit of the utilities but for the people of the State of Ohio," he said. "So I'm not sure that the request should be directed to us."

Bills presented so far for payment include $588 for airline fare to Houston, Tex. and return for two highway patrolmen, $49.66 for their hotel lodging and $20 for miscellaneous expenses, said Ferguson. Other bills include $246.30 for advertising in two Oklahoma newspapers.

"Those who benefited from the extra gas (the utilities) should pay the expenses incurred in finding that gas, not the taxpayers of Ohio in general," Ferguson said.
